

Come Home to Discounted Rates

Richmond Community College is offering a discount on summer classes for university students coming home for the summer break.

University students who enroll in a class, or classes, during the 2022 Summer Semester at RichmondCC will get a "Homecoming Special" on tuition and fees for classes. For example:

- Cost of 3 credit hour class: $199 (normal price: $253)
- Cost of 4 credit hour course: $275 (normal price: $329)
- Cost of 5 credit hour course: $350 (normal price: $405)

Students must apply as a special credit student in order to receive the Homecoming Special.

RichmondCC Offers Homecoming Special on Summer Classes for University Students

Students will be responsible for the cost of books for each class they take.

If a student plans on using financial aid to pay for classes, he or she will need to contact the Financial Aid Office at (910) 410-1723.

"We hope the Homecoming Special will encourage university students to take advantage of the many transferable classes we offer during the summer," said Dr. Hal Shuler, who is over the College Foundation that is providing the funding for the initiative. "While many of these classes are offered online, our instructors are still hands-on with each student. Unlike the university setting, RichmondCC provides an individualized learning environment with small, personal classes."

"If a class you need is not available, we want you to contact us because you may not be alone. If we have enough demand for a particular transfer class, we will create it," Shuler said.

For more information about the Homecoming Special or other scholarships available for summer students, please contact Financial Aid at (910) 410-1723.

Richmond Senior High School student Eduardo Mendez Guerrero has signed on to be an apprentice with Volumetric Building Companies. The apprenticeship program will also pay for Eduardo's education at Richmond Community College.

Apprenticeships Expanding You Can Earn While You Learn

Richmond Senior High School students Eduardo Mendez Guerrero and Ahmad Shelton are both getting paid to learn. They recently signed on as apprentices with Eduardo working at Volumetric Building Companies and Ahmad at Superior Cranes. They also will be attending Richmond Community College to supplement their training.

The N.C. Community College System was recently allocated $2 million dollars to grow its ApprenticeshipNC program. Apprentices are individuals who receive on-the-job learning from a company or business while also receiving job-related education from a community college or trade organization. They can be current high school students, recent graduates, experienced workers or military veterans.

Apprentices are like regular employees when they are hired by a company. They receive a salary and benefits, such as health insurance and paid time off. Most companies will also cover tuition costs for a student's educational training. It is a valuable "earn-as-you-learn" program.

"The apprenticeship program is an excellent opportunity for both the company and the individual," said Director of Career & Transfer Services Patsy Stanley. "The company is developing a skilled employee who meets workforce needs, and the individual is getting sought-after skills to launch a career."

In addition to Volumetric and Superior Cranes, RichmondCC has apprenticeship partnerships with Plastek, Perdue Farms, and Carolina Hearts.

The Plastek apprenticeship

Richmond Senior High School student Ahmad Shelton has signed on as an apprentice with Superior Crane. The apprenticeship program will also pay for Ahmad's education at Richmond Community College.

provides career training for mechatronics technicians, who are responsible for building, repairing and providing regular maintenance of industrial automation and assembly equipment.

The Perdue apprenticeship prepares students to become industrial maintenance technicians. Perdue has openings for six apprentices, but the company will accept anywhere from 10 to 15 if the demand is there. Apprentices will start at $16/hour, with the potential to make up to $20 to $22/hour.

The Carolina Hearts apprenticeship prepares students to work in the healthcare field. Upon completion of the apprenticeship, students will have a Nursing Assistant I certification along with several hours of experience.

Supporting the growth of North Carolina's economy, ApprenticeshipNC has doubled in the past four years and served nearly 17,000 North Carolinians in fiscal year 2021. For information about becoming an apprentice or creating an apprenticeship program with RichmondCC, call the Career & Transfer Center at (910) 410-1700 or visit www.richmondcc.edu/apprenticeships.

Out-of-State Tuition WAIVED

Qualified students will pay in-state rates.*

APPLY FOR FREE

Not a resident of N.C.? Not a problem!

Richmond Community College is waiving out-of-state tuition rates for qualified students who live outside of North Carolina to earn their degree from RichmondCC.

Out-of-state students who have an unweighted high school GPA of 3.3 or higher will pay RichmondCC's low cost in-state tuition rates through a new scholarship called the Pee Dee Special.

"We welcome our neighboring South Carolina residents to take advantage of our affordable tuition rates and the unique programs we have at RichmondCC such as Electric Utility Substation & Relay Technology, Cybersecurity, Mechatronics, Emergency Medical Science, Dialysis Technology and many others," said Dr. Dale McInnis, College president. "Not only are we inviting South Carolina students, but we hope students from all over the country will apply for the Pee Dee Special. Our Substation program has drawn students from Virginia, Tennessee, and Indiana. Also we have more degree programs that are offered 100 percent online."

RichmondCC's in-state tuition rate is only $76 per credit hour. In-state tuition rates for South Carolina technical colleges are over $100 more per credit hour. Plus, out-of-county rates also apply at South Carolina technical colleges. Southwest Virginia Community College, which has the lowest tuition rates in Virginia, charges $156 per credit hour for in-state students.

"North Carolina has one of the least expensive community college tuition rates for in-state students. At RichmondCC, we also do not charge an application fee," McInnis said. "The Pee Dee Special is our way of opening up more options for students facing college decisions and reducing the burden of college debt."

To apply for the Pee Dee Special, visit RichmondCC's website and begin the free application process: www.richmondcc.edu/admissions. The deadline to complete the application and submit all required documents is July 1. A limited number of scholarships will be awarded, so apply early. For more information, call Student Services at (910) 410-1700.
